

Specialist Procurement Support for Business Change

Targeted procurement expertise when your business needs it most

Certain business events naturally create pressure on procurement teams — often quickly and unexpectedly. These moments demand specialist capability, additional capacity, or niche expertise that may not exist in-house. FlexProc provides practical, targeted procurement support to help organisations navigate periods of change without committing to long-term, costly consulting programmes

When This Support Is Needed

This service is particularly relevant during:

- Mergers, acquisitions, or divestments
- Rapid changes in demand or operating models
- Gaps in niche or specialist procurement skills
- Digital or technology transformation initiatives
- Periods of heightened commercial or supplier risk

How FlexProc Helps

FlexProc works alongside in-house teams to address specific challenges created by business change, providing senior procurement expertise exactly where it is needed

Our support may include:

- Category or supplier stabilisation during change
- Commercial and contract support for time-critical initiatives
- Specialist input for complex or unfamiliar categories
- Short-term capacity uplift for overstretched teams
- Independent commercial advice during transformation

Engagements are clearly scoped, outcome-focused, and time-bound.

What This Delivers

- Continuity and control during periods of disruption
- Access to specialist skills without permanent overhead
- Faster, better-informed commercial decisions
- Reduced risk and cost exposure
- Support that complements — not replaces — in-house teams
